

April 9, 2006

The Project 25 Statement of Requirements (SoR) is intended to be a living document that serves as the foundation of the Project 25's family of public safety digital standards. During past 13 years, this document has evolved continuously to reflect the public safety community's future needs while staying within what we believe is achievable, reasonable economical and practical.

Every requirement found in the SoR has been reviewed and approved in open public forums to ensure its contents are based upon the best public and private technological information available and to ensure that the document accurately reflects the needs of the entire public safety community.

On behalf of the entire Project 25 Steering Committee, I would encourage your active participation and any formal or informal comments you may have with regard to this document or your needs as a public safety representative or industry representative. You should also know that while we normally update this document on an annual basis, we fully anticipate the next revision will be available during the summer of 2006.

Sincerely,

Craig M. Jorgensen
